In executive search, context matters.

There's more to finding the right fit for a leadership position than the words on a CV. That's why, at Amrop, we use a Context Driven approach to executive search — one that takes into account your strategy, culture and goals, along with the skills, expectations and personality of candidates. With 89 offices in 57 countries, we know the importance of understanding the full context. Because the last problem you want to deal with is one you hired.
